The Classes

BOOK ONE

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To the Class of 1942:

From Callaway to Fant for you has been a short, joyous journey. Along the way you have out-grown many, but not all of your freshman traits. Even as seniors your directness, your simplicity, your naturalness are refreshing. Your method of entertaining "dates" when you were freshmen was no more unique than your dignified way of life as seniors. The good will and good taste with which you have lived together in Fant has set a fine example for all who may follow you.

Rarely have I known a class to be as co-operative as the Class of 1942 has been. To a marked degree you have recognized, elected, and followed your leadership, which has been intelligent and ethical to an unusual extent. Your gracious way of living among us has demonstrated a standard which will, I am sure, prove an inspiration to other classes yet to follow.

We are grateful to you for your example. We wish for every one of you a full measure of happiness and success in life. To every one of you Alma Mater now extends a cordial invitation to return often. A warm welcome awaits you whenever you return.

Sincerely yours,

B. L. PARKINSON,
President

Helen Harrold, Miss Goen, Dora Clay, and Grace Baker.

THE SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

HELEN HARROLD	President
GRACE BAKER	Vice-President
DORA CLAY	Secretary-Treasurer
MISS MARGUERITE GOEN	Sponsor

From her pinnacle of dignity, the Senior looks back with the tiniest poignant ache at the progress she has made—pauses reminiscently at Hastings, Reneau, and Peyton, and sets up her time-tattered belongings once more in Fant—sinks panting into the bus every morning clutching madly her lesson plan—and once at Lee High hovers near the shelter of her book, always expecting the impossible question—settles over and over in midnight sessions the important questions of life—makes colorful exits on week-ends—chaperones in her most worldly manner—lounges lazily on second floor or waxes acrobatic in an ambitious few nights of undignified setting-up exercises—revives her suffocating courage outside the door of a prospective employer and feels strangely like somebody else when the job is hers—suddenly, at the end of the year, finds undreamed sweetness in the songs she has sung four years, "Alma Mater," "Hail to Thee." She gives up her chapel seat with mingled hopeless longing and happy pride—can't make up her mind whether to look backward or forward—and finds either way is dimmed with tears.

THE JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

FRANKIE STEPHENS	President
SUE WORLEY	Vice-President
ADINE BECKER	Secretary-Treasurer
MISS EMMA ODY POHL	Sponsor

The Junior moves all her infinitesimally dotted collars into Peyton with hardly concealed pride—bewails the proximity of the whistle, but wouldn't live anywhere else—yawns heroically through the extra hour from eleven to twelve—haunts freshmen corridors—and entertains lavishly every Saturday night in her effort to find the one and only little sister, and then draws number two hundred and ninety-nine—dons a gauzy dress and ushers beautifully at Lyceums—equanimity unshaken when three people demand the same seat—and someone objects to the post in front of him—rushes backstage on Stunt Night before bidding farewell forever to sophistication—can't conquer the idea that Fant is an impossible attainment, and yet, through the dimness of tears on class day, finds herself in the Seniors' places and Junior days gone forever.

Now the Sophomore doesn't have to look up to quite so many people—from the height of her one year's experience at college she offers the sagest advice to Freshmen. She struggles valiantly to keep from being the forgotten class—and succeeds. From her remote stronghold in Reneau she shows her infinite knowledge by solving the problem of distance with bikes—and attacks the campus with squadrons of them—while her other half at Shattuck has no distance problems. She casually tells Johnny he might just as well come on Friday as Saturday—bristles with pots and pans and brings back all mother's odd dishes when she discovers she can brew coffee in her own room. She has learned to be sophisticated and almost bored by pop quizzes. She says her official goodbye to her Big Sister with Magnolia Chain and a garden party—and prepares to stand alone.

MISS ROMAYNE BERRYMAN	Sponsor

Once the Freshman dreamed a hazy high school dream of college—then one vivid September day, her dream became a reality. In a week jammed full of tests and tours and registration she was buffeted about, confused, in a sea of navy-blue—pulled hither and thither by upperclassmen who seemed to know everything about everything. She tumbled down the labyrinthine spirals of the fire escape—and came out only slightly sideways, and still alive. She was expected to believe tall, unlikely tales—and believed them. She wept secret tears into her pillow at night and called up her family on the house telephone next day. She tremulously awaited the knock on her door that would solve the tantalizing mystery of her Big Sister. She had mental chills weeks before exams, just thinking about them—and when they finally came, she arose to the occasion at five every morning. When May came, she was an indispensable part of M. S. C. W., still a little bewildered at the white-trimmed collar some adoring sophomore handed down to her.

WHO'S WHO

The honor of representing M. S. C. W. in the publication "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" is given to the Junior and Senior members of the Presidents Council. This year marks the initial appearance of students from our college in this book which lists the outstanding students in American institutions of higher learning.

PRESIDENTS COUNCIL

Composed of the Presidents of the four classes and the heads of the most important extra-curricular organizations, Presidents Council balances the weighty responsibility of conferring with Dr. Parkinson on campus problems, with lighter ones of serving as hostess to college guests and assisting with coffee and mints after birthday dinners.

Student Government on this campus has been in existence since 1910, serving as a connecting link between the administration and the student body. Through its president, its executive board, its council and a weekly holding of honor courts it has achieved its purpose of upholding integrity and the highest standards of honor.

The entire student body, as members of Student Government, meet twice a month to discuss student problems.

The Y. W. C. A. Executive Cabinet is composed of a group of girls, who, under the able guidance of Miss Hudson, plan the activities that are to be carried on by the "Y" and see that they are carefully executed.

The Y. W. C. A. is not something a person can describe or limit, because essentially it exists through every girl interested in it. If you've gone to Vespers, Morning Watch, Discussion or Freshman interest groups, or Christmas caroling, had a "Y" sister, enjoyed "at homes," liked Religious Emphasis Week, you've felt the influence of the "Y" and contributed to it.

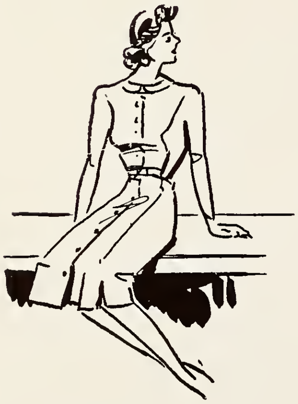
The fact that the "Y" Library is such a popular place on the campus attests to its homelike quality, and the Y. W. C. A. itself belongs as much to every student.

Composing the cabinet are twenty-eight girls who lead the activities and head committees of the "Y." They are selected on the basis of eligibility and application, and go on a "Retreat" twice a year.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

THE M. S. C. W. THEATRE



Behind such delightful successes as "The Cradle Song" will be found the Fontannes and the bevies of backstage crews who compose the ranks of Theatre Guild.

Actresses, stage crews, make-up crews, prop men, scenery painters—it takes them all to give us unforgettable glimpses of other worlds across the footlights—the romance of the stage—the hush and suspense of the theatre.

Weeks of rehearsal prepare them to add to our store of imperishable memories such productions as "A Game of Love and Chance," and Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," the lovely effect of which was accomplished through the combined efforts of the Speech, Physical Education, and Music Departments.

Five years ago, in 1937, The Ephemera, under the faculty sponsorship of Dr. G. T. Buckley, made its debut upon the campus of M. S. C. W. with the purpose of stimulating and fostering creative talent among students. The title is a reference to the transitional stage in the progress of the contributors themselves. The staff encourages contributions, essays, short stories, poetry, and reviews from members of all classes. Art work, including blockprints, humorous sketches, photographs, and reproductions are an important feature. Three times a year, after a frantic interlude which involves counting words, pasting cuts, cutting and proof reading on the part of the staff, the magazine makes its appearance. Flavia Russell and her staff edit the Ephemera, while Mazie Higginbotham and her staff deal with financial matters.

YEARBOOK

FOR WOMEN

To the layman the Meh Lady office presents a picture of untidiness which would never pass Mrs. Young's inspection, but to the annual staff each slip of copy paper, each picture, and each sample cover has a special meaning. The all-important "dummy," the borrowed annuals which line the shelves, the ever-present typewriters, the innumerable snapshots, the layout sheets, and coke bottles, even the ruler which holds up the window, are all familiar to the chosen few who know where to find the key to the office.

During the year there have been times when we burned the midnight oil to get the copy ready to meet the printer's deadline, times when it seemed almost impossible to find a suitable cover, times when we were sure we would be expelled for running over our snapshot budget, times when our "B" average was threatened because we concentrated on this book instead of sifting facts from histories or literature. In retrospect these crises have been small and insignificant compared to the immense pleasure which we have gotten from doing the job. And now—we put the 1942 Meh Lady "to bed"—hoping that it is what each M. S. C. W. student wanted her annual to be.

THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

PAT KELLIS
Business Manager

Tuesday night has never yet meant a Waterloo for the "Spec"—M. S. C. W.'s weekly newspaper—O. P. M. blackout or no blackout. " 'The Spec' must come out," and come out it will, for Audrey Maples, editor, threatens to retire under the desk with her typewriter, armed with the huge Spectator shears to gouge out Herr Hitler's eyes in the event of a blitz.

The history books may tell you that the open door policy originated with China, but they were never acquainted with the "Spec." All and sundry are invited to prop their feet on the desk beside those of the staff members, and a large percentage of the student body never fails to drop by and extend deepest sympathy on the arrival of the Monday night deadline.

Traditional with the "Spec" are paper-littered floors, empty Coca Cola bottles, and evil-smelling paste. Traditional also are the bi-annual banquets, when the "Spec" really goes all out in food, hospitality and entertainment.

Pat Kellis squeezes the money-bags of the Spectator, counting out taxi fare, with many groans, while Editor Maples stands guard over the occasional scoops with blood in her eye.

We like our "Spec," and are proud of its First Class Excellent rating, and its membership in national, southern, and state press associations.

Civic League has for its purpose the development of good campus citizens. In urging students to keep to the straight and narrow path, and incidentally, off the grass, and in relegating dust and bunny-tails to no-man's-land, they are striving toward their aim of flawless dormitories and a beautiful campus. They take a lead in supporting all worthwhile campus activities, such as the National Defense Program.

Civic League seeks to give girls a respect for rules necessary for living together — a respect that will continue long after they have left M. S. C. W.

There are certain personalities it's wise to avoid when feeling argumentative. As a group, they're known as Debate Council—people in close touch with world affairs, and very "honorable opponents" because of their excellent training in logic. With two questions this year instead of the usual one, they have worked doubly hard under the splendid guidance of Miss Crowell, and have done justice to both on numerous debate trips. The two questions, called into being by historic world conditions, are the Pi Kappa Delta questions for the year.

ORCHESTRA

Slight tremors from the violins and soft rustling sounds among various musical instruments are well-known preliminaries to the beautiful flow of music through Whitfield Auditorium on such occasions as the Junior-Freshman Wedding and the Dance Programs. Rather vague to the rest of us is their private life over in Music Hall, but we can never forget the impressive note members of the orchestra, directed by Mr. Russell, contribute to these occasions and to graduation exercises at the end of school. Whether exhibiting Forest Hill possibilities on the tennis court, enviable plunges into the swimming pool, or stiff competition in volley ball, hockey, and basketball, members of Women's Athletic Association are accorded our loud-voiced applause and admiration. By such intramural activities they stimulate student interest in athletics, and by sponsoring Hygiene Month, they focus our attention upon hygienic activities. Governed by a point system, they pledge girls at the end of each gym term who have qualified for membership.

We Pause to Honor . . .

An alumna who makes us even prouder to declare our loyalty to M. S. C. W.; a charming woman who has established a name for herself in the annals of education, research, and publication (you should read her latest book, "Clara Barton," written after her resignation as Head of the English Department at Hunter College); a person whose name is among the great and whose heart has not forgotten the place where she began her career. To Dr. Blanche Colton Williams, we offer our sincere respect and warm admiration.

Star and Scepter, through its selection of members and through its activities during the year, upholds the ideals of leadership and scholarship in which its purpose exists—leadership that must meet the problems this world offers—scholarship arising from an interest in and appreciation of these problems. This year their topic of study has been "The Defense of the Americas," and their aim, to understand in what ways the Americas need to be defended against other powers in the world. Requirements for membership are a percentile rank of at least 85, a minimum of twenty-five activity points, and a satisfactory student government record.

Transformed by a bit of grease paint, members of Alpha Psi Omega have become exceptional heroines and unequaled heroes. From the softest sigh to the most convincing laugh, they have demonstrated their versatility in character portrayal, or from back stage they have helped another play through its difficult stage intc its perfection as we know it.

By their talent on our stage and through their experience in numerous productions, they have earned coveted membership in the national honorary dramatic fraternity—for membership a student must meet the requirements of twelve Theatre Guild points and unanimous election by the chapter.

It is composed of all students majoring in home economics and of students electing courses in the Home Economics Department. Programs for the monthly meetings are planned to stimulate deeper interest and a more intimate knowledge of subjects in this field. Affiliated with the State and National Home Economics Association, the organization each year sponsors social service work by supplying some under-privileged family with milk and other commodities. Only senior members and club officers appear on these pages.

EDUCATION CLUB

In some little town—somewhere—a class of children will be taught "reading" and "ritin' " and "rithmetic"—and the problems arising therefrom will be met by the power behind the desk. Anticipation of these problems and their solution are the interests of the members of Education Club, who study such questions at their monthly meetings and consider ways of becoming the best teachers possible.

The members of Nature Study Club are girls interested in all out-of-door life. Their interest takes them on picnics to such places as Plymouth Bluff, always keeping their eyes open for the unusual. Neither bugs, twigs, nor rocks are slighted in their zest for identifying. Indoors, they look at slides and motion pictures of the rarities in nature.

Lovers of good music, the members of Bach Society try to stimulate a like appreciation among the student body. As applied music students, orchestra and glee club members, they are at home with the world's great compositions—symphonies, concertos—and each year take part in a number of programs. One of the outstanding programs of this year was an organ recital, given in December by Mr. Lee, assisted by Miss Horn, Soprano.

Bach Society sponsors a luncheon during the Music Festival, is a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and has its annual banquet in May.

The streets of Paris, the Ile de France, the warm and sunny Province flickering through the pages of French literature, are familiar to students of French. French civilization—with its art, its literature, its people and their customs—is studied by members of Pi Delta Phi and French Club, who seek as a basis for their study of the language, an understanding of the people.

Pi Delta Phi, the first national honorary fraternity on the M. S. C. W. campus, sponsors French Club and meets jointly with it once a month.

ALPHA CHI ALPHA

Pi Chapter of Alpha Chi Alpha is the "baby" of honorary fraternities on the campus. Organized in April of last year, it has for its purpose the promotion of good journalism at M. S. C. W. Five of its charter members remained in the present session: Audrey Maples, president; Jean Glaser, treasurer; Flavia Russell, secretary; Adine Becker and Yvonne Betts. Ten new members were pledged from the ranks of the Senior, Junior and Sophomore classes in December: Yvonne Brisbane, Clifton Ray, Alice Hamer, Mattee Bufkin, Emmy Lou Geary, Joyce Anderson, Marie Drake, Ann Potter, Kathleen Rushing, Kay Bogan.

WRITER'S CLUB

The Phoetonians is an honor society whose purpose is fostering student writing. As literary pledglings, they try the elusive wings of inspiration and discuss and criticize the results at their meetings twice a month. In their mutual searches for the "one word" and their efforts to fashion pages of those words into finished form, they are guided by Mr. L. A. Osgod.

The romantic past and the eventful present in the history of Mississippi have attracted many girls to study both with deeper appreciation, as members of Mississippi Historical Society. Colonial homes in and around Columbus have provided opportunity for interesting visits and studies, and personalities from the first d'Iberville to the Goliaths in contemporary affairs have an especial fascination for the Society.

Recognizing the increasing responsibility of the church to follow her students and minister to their needs, the women of the Presbyterian Churches in Mississippi made possible the Presbyterian Student center which opened in February, 1941. Miss Margaret Archibald, a recently returned missionary from Japan, came to serve as Student Secretary. "Getting Started" best sums up the accomplishments of the months that have followed. Serving as hostess to the State Presbyterian Student Convention, and engaging in activities connected with the campus and with the local church mark the events of the year.

Everybody happy? Twenty-six smiles like that can't be mistaken—They're Black Listers! Back in 1914, when Black List made its initial appearance on the campus, the outstanding members of the Junior Class were chosen as those best able to "take" Halloween Week—Black List chose thirteen—Halloween Week is gone but Black List lives on—thirteen Senior actives and thirteen Junior pledges—candlelight pledging—elaborate banquet given by the Juniors—informal parties in the Goose—overnight initiation — anything meaning fun. Insignia of the order: eye patches—guns—paddles — gold bracelets with skull and cross bones. Chief Black Lister, Betty Gause; sponsor, Miss Marguerite Goen.

Not fugitives from a concentration camp—these eleven black-masked faces—though they might tell you of the mysteries of a woodland camp in the dark of the moon (initiation memories). They are the eleven Juniors selected this year from the ranks of '43 to join the geneology of the House of Masker, as recorded from year to year on the traditional wooden paddles. Although various black rites connected with Halloween Week in the past have been eliminated by modern Maskers, the organization was originally a part of these festivities—Founded in 1929 under another name and dedicated to the great god Fun, the club in 1932 became the Maskers, Junior-Senior social organization of today. . . . Official insignia of the clan are masks, paddles, "asphidity" bags worn by the pledges, and bracelets of the members. . . . Not to be forgotten is the pledge breakfast—when new pledges stagger uptown to the Gilmer at the crack of dawn — the bi-annual banquets, the breakfast given for Masker Alumnae at homecoming, suppers in the Goose, and wiener roasts at Lee Park. Letty Lassiter wields the head Masker's paddle, while Miss Elise Davis serves as sponsor.

To at least forty girls on the M. S. C. W. campus the word Lockheart brings to mind tiny gold hearts worn by members and fragrant cedar ones worn by pledges. To them Lockheart symbolizes good times, banquets, gala picnics at old Lee Park, steak fries, and early morning breakfasts on the banks of the Tombigbee, and most especially it means a deep friendship existing between the Sophomore and Freshman Classes. Lockheart requires of its members a high scholastic average and participation in extracurricular activities.

Until 1924, the Hottentot was known only as a savage creature, but that year saw the Hottentot change into a social creation—a creation with all the highly civilizing influences of soft candle-lit teas; and a white candle-lit initiation service at which jeweled "H" pledge pins become guards for jeweled pins signifying membership. Two formal, yet colorful, banquets stand out as guide posts along the trail of these charming socialites. Less formal but equally enjoyable are the suppers once a month, and the picnic for the Seniors which rounds out a year of gracious entertainment for these transformed savages.

In Appreciation

Before writing "30" to the 1942 Meh Lady, we wish to acknowledge the valuable assistance of the following persons, without whose help we could never have done the job. First to Dr. Parkinson for his interest, sympathy, and advice we wish to express our gratitude. We express our sincere appreciation to Miss Lucy Banks, our beloved sponsor, whose good advice, experience, and understanding were invaluable; to Dan Eadie, Joe Ledbetter, and Mr. E. W. Benson, of the Benson Printing Company; to Mr. R. B. Faerber, of the Alabama Engraving Company; to Mr. Roy Gring, our photographer in chief; to Mr. A. C. Rowe and the college business staff who helped us in financial matters; and to Mr. A. A. Lubersky, of the David J. Mulloy Plant, who patiently assisted our selection of a cover.

We are most grateful also to the members of the 1942 Meh Lady staff who gave their valuable time and talents to typing, writing copy, taking pictures, reading proof, and all phases of the publishing of an annual.

Lastly, we wish to thank our roommates, Doug Patterson and Earlyne Oursler. They patiently swept the rooms when it wasn't their day, administered sedatives during editorial crises, knew when we wanted sympathy and when we wanted silence.

To each of you we say "Thank You."
